Bill:

Many thanks to you and Anne for the invitation to the Army Intelligence Ball. I welcomed the opportunity to talk to that very eager audience. It was indeed like preaching to the choir.

I was fascinated by the quality of the Army choral group. They could hold their own on any Broadway show.

Maybe in the not too distant future you and Anne could join Bob Gates and I for lunch where we could enjoy a debriefing from your Moscow trip.

Again, thanks for the delightful evening.

Regards,

John N. McMahon
